

3 MASON ST.
CAMBRIDGE.

My dear Mr. Day.

You are my good & remembered one at this busy time with this many glimpses of the dark of the mountains and our good time in it all.
How delightful Miss Whitney's unconsciousness is! But Miss Manning and I have an eye on you, and my smiles are almost too broad for the picture.
Surely our special artist is very successful!

I saw with joy the other day that you are soon to publish your Keats letters. We were most sorry that we could not accept your charming invitation for the Keats evening. I seldom rebel more than I did then against Mr.
Palmer's constant engagements. Come time soon I hope we may see you here, and continue the acquaintance so pleasantly begun in August.

Faithfully Yours,

Dec. 24, 1891. Alice F. Palmer.

Mr. Fred Holland Esq.

Norwood.
